CLIMATOLOGY

2009 saw excellent climate conditions, with no rains whatsoever, which made it possible to set the harvest date based on the desired ripeness. The vineyards didn't experience any spring frost, and morning fog didn't set in until late in the fall, resulting in completely healthy grapes. The hot summer brought the harvest forward by a week. Picking started on April 30th.

SOIL

Soils of fluvial and alluvial origin. Very deep clay loam, with the presence of small rounded clasts at different depths. Moderately acidic pH, with very low fertility.
