2020 VINTAGE

The prolonged water shortage that affects much of the country, and that in Curicó reaches a 76% deficit compared to a normal year, plus the strong frosts that occurred between September and November of last year, also adding the high temperatures in months that did not were expected, greatly affected the yield levels of certain vineyards, and, consequently, the advancement of the estimated date for the present harvest. "It is related not only to the climatic conditions where there is drought, but also to the increase in temperatures in months like November, considered the warmest in the last 110 years in the central zone, and also in January, which was hotter than normal. In addition, there were frosts that we had in September, then that of October which was really powerful, and some in November in some sectors of the Maule, which significantly affected yields. Given the current scenario, the professional indicates that the acidity in the grapes has not dropped significantly, which is positive for a hot year.
